BCM is delighted to welcome Michelle Smith to the company as Lettings Negotiator for this fast growing area of the business. BCM, based in Sutton Scotney near Winchester in Hampshire, are specialists in rural property, operating throughout southern England. Their lettings division has grown incrementally every year for the past six years, including during this current recession, so a dynamic manager is essential.

Michelle has replaced Romy Adlington, who was highly valued by all the tenants and landlords. It is a testament to Michelle's skills and personality that she has picked up the reins so well and has been so warmly welcomed by everyone.

Michelle is a local Hampshire girl, having been brought up in the Winchester area, now living in Kings Worthy. She attended Peter Symonds College after which she worked for Winchester City Council before being recruited to Barclays Bank. After nine years in this company she took the opportunity to go overseas and taught English as a foreign language in a school in Thailand. Back permanently in the UK she was looking for a change of direction, wanting to work in a different industry with more scope, variety and interest. She was absolutely delighted to be successful in her application for this post with BCM.

Helen Prior, HR Manager at BCM, said: " We are very pleased to have been able to recruit someone of Michelle's calibre. She is a real people person and has provided a seamless handover for our landlords and tenants, and made a clear contribution to the continuing expansion and growth of this department."
