BCM take on employee with historic link

BCM are pleased to announce they have taken on Jessica Harris as General Office Assistant. With their client focussed service and continued expansion, Jess has joined BCM to support the team in all aspects of their services. By a quirk of fate, Jess is a descendant of James Harris, who set up the eponymous firm which was a stalwart of Hampshire rural property services from its inception in 1861 to its merger with Savills in July 1998. All the founder Partners of BCM were part of James Harris until its merger.

Andrew Bays, Managing Partner of BCM comments "We are very pleased that Jess has joined us. She is already proving invaluable in assisting everyone in the office and our clients. It is great that Jess has a link to our past with James Harris. Robin Lalonde, the eldest member of our team, was pupil to and then partner with James Harris' grandson, Jim Harris, and is now delighted to be working with a somewhat younger member of the Harris dynasty."
