BCM have expanded their services following continued growth in their core businesses of rural asset management, sales, purchases and lettings of rural property, and architecture and design. As part of this success, BCM have re-launched their website to incorporate both the increasing number of services they now offer clients and their recent rebranding exercise.

Andrew Bays, Managing Partner of BCM comments "We felt the need to look at our website again in order to accurately reflect the services we now offer. We are concentrating on letting people know who we are and what we do. The website now incorporates current properties for sale and to let and all recent news.

We have used the services of Paul Martin at Wizbit to design the site, who coincidentally rents his office from a client of BCM. The office conversion was entirely handled by BCM's architectural department and subsequently let by the rural lettings team also at BCM."
